The Company

CoRoS Consulting was founded in 2003 in Johannesburg by its current owner, Nelus Rossouw. Today, COROS remains one of the few privately owned software companies specializing in electronic document and report management solutions for the enterprise. The company's financial independence empowers COROS to focus exclusively on the evolution of its core products and respond consistently to the needs of its customers. It is this concentrated approach to product development that ensures CoRoS which continues to supply a cohesive, functionally rich set of solutions. Well over thirty organizations and companies, across all industry sectors, take advantage of COROS "savoir-faire" to meet their document distribution, archival and restoration requirements.

Products and Services

Modern organizations struggle to keep pace with the constant pressure of information delivery and exchange, and with the deployment of hardware and software architectures, to cope with increased demand for faster transmission.

Burgeoning mergers and acquisitions markets have created additional levels of complexity, presenting a formidable challenge, for any organization, to ensure immediate and reliable access to increasing volumes of data.

COROS expertise are designed precisely to meet this challenge. Its comprehensive distribution and archival solutions provide rapid deployment of all corporate documents and guarantee seamless access to all business critical data across the organization, regardless of format or source. The products offer significant scalability and inter-connectivity through the support of multiple computer platforms, while ensuring confidentiality and security of access. COROS offers a complete range of services to its customers covering full technical support, consulting, implementation and training.

International Partnerships

Many of the solutions implemented by COROS require coordination on an international scale, as well as cooperation with other developers of technologies. To support these projects, COROS has established strategic partnerships with companies who specialize in areas of software development that complement the COROS product line.
